The City of Perris is hosting a summit to introduce an innovative program that could allow residents to obtain a bachelor's degree without any out-of-pocket costs.

The "Perris Working Scholars" program will be announced at the summit on Sept. 27 at 11:30 a.m. in the Perris City Council Chambers, 101 North D Street.

The City is partnering with Study.com, Duke Realty and Silicon Valley Community Foundation to bring Perris residents the chance to earn a BA online. The upcoming event will gauge community interest in the Perris Working Scholars program. Lunch will be provided.
